

INFORMATION ABOUT ADVANCED THERAPY MEDICINAL PRODUCT

|                                                                   |                                                                                                                                              |
|-------------------------------------------------------------------|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| Product manufacturer                                       | JSC „Froceth“                                                                                                                                |
| Number of manufacturing permission issued by SMCA          | 15/220321                                                                                                                                    |
| Advanced therapy medicinal product name                    | Cytokine Induced Killer Cell Product                                                                                                         |
| ATMP type                                                  | <input type="checkbox"/> AUTOLOGOUS<input checked="" type="checkbox"/> ALLOGENEIC                                                        |
| ATMP receiving hospital name                               |                                                                                                                                              |
| Patient's ID                                               | PB-23-510                                                                                                                                    |
| ATMP samples ID                                            | PB-23-510 (1 st unit)PB-23-510 (2 nd unit)PB-23-510 (3 rd unit)PB-23-510 (4 th unit) |
| Patient file number                                        | PB24/PB23510-32                                                                                                                              |
| Number of manufactured doses (amount of cells in one dose) | 4 doses ( $8 \times 10^8$ cells in 10 mL volume)                                                                                             |
| Date of ATMP expiry                                        | 2025-04-24                                                                                                                                   |
| Pharmaceutical form                                        | <input type="checkbox"/> INJECTION<input checked="" type="checkbox"/> INFUSION                                                           |

Description: product manufactured accordingly to doctor's prescription. Product manufacturing consist of lymphocytes separation from umbilical cord blood. During manufacture lymphocytes are activated by cytokines and stimuli of antibodies. Final product – heterogeneous population, CIK.

Materials used for manufacturing: recombinant human interleukin (IL-2); Imukin (IFN- $\gamma$ ); antibody anti-CD3, antibody anti-CD2; antibody anti-CD335; PRIME-XV TCELL CDM medium; Fikol; Tetraspan 6%.

Storage conditions: CIK product should be stored at least -80 °C temperature (freezer or dry ice). Product date of expiration is indicated above. Thawed products should be used immediately without storage.

BIOLOGICAL HAZARD!